Invitation to the international final conference in Marburg on 17th September 2021

Dear interested parties, for two years now, the University town of Marburg, JUKO Marburg e.V. and Frauen helfen Frauen e.V. Marburg have been jointly implementing the EU-funded project "Marburg without intimate partner violence".

We would like to invite you very cordially to our

International final conference
“Noticing, preventing and stopping partner violence together
- International final conference of the EU project
Marburg without intimate partner violence”
on 17th September 2021 from 10:00 to 16:30
both in the Erwin-Piscator-Haus in Marburg and in digital format

Due to the existing corona-related restrictions, we will hold the symposium as a hybrid event. We are able to welcome a limited number of guests at the conference venue in Marburg. In order to give all interested parties the opportunity to participate in our conference, we will also offer all contributions in digital format parallel to the attendance event. You have the option of registering for one of the two formats. Please understand that we will probably not be able to consider all registrations for a presence place.

Participation in the conference is free of charge.

The symposium is part of our EU-funded project "Marburg without intimate partner violence" and is organized by the "Coordination and Service Centre Marburg without intimate partner violence". The aim of the symposium is to present the results of our two-year project to a broader professional public and to exchange with you about the results and perspectives of our joint work.

We are very pleased that our conference will be enriched by two expert delegations from our partner cities Sibiu (Romania) and Poitiers (France). Together with these representatives we will be able to present and discuss our experiences in the development and expansion of international networking.

The morning of the symposium is available for insights into selected areas of our activities and for a joint exchange about them.

In a gallery you can get to know various products of our public relations work in different formats.

In a round table discussion we will discuss the opportunities of town twinning for the expansion of cooperation in the work against partner violence (in English).

The colleagues from Frauen helfen Frauen e.V. Marburg and JUKO Marburg e.V. will present the results of their work in the practical modules of the project in two thematic rooms.

In the afternoon, the evaluation team of Combeo Consult GmbH will provide insights into the project evaluation and present selected preliminary results of the project evaluation.

Please refer to the attached programme for the specific conference schedule. The conference languages are German and English. All German contributions will be simultaneously translated into English.

For the digitally connected guests there will be the opportunity to participate with questions and contributions via the chat, we will also provide this in English. All the above-mentioned contributions will also be available digitally after the final conference.

We would be very pleased to welcome you as a guest at our symposium in September. Please use the attached registration form to register for participation.

All information on the conference is now also available online at www.marburg.de/MRoP-Abschlussstagung available.

With kind regards
